Products that pamper

In the 1920s, very thin eyebrows became tres chic, thanks to silent movie stars like Clara Bow, pictured right. As the actresses relied heavily on facial expressions to convey emotion, makeup artists plucked their eyebrows thin and darkened them with pencil so they could be seen more clearly on film as they moved up and down.

It's a very specific look that, when done right, can look great. But if you are wanting to try it, please think ahead: overzealous plucking can lead to hair not growing back, so a less drastic shape is probably a better idea. Nutrimetics' Eyebrow Kit includes four eyebrow stencil shapes along with a wax, two brow colours, a highlighter and double ended brush – couldn't be easier. $25 from nutrimetics.co.nz RACHEL TREVELYAN
